WHITE MAN DENIED BOND IN MURDER

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER SPEAKS

WHITE MAN IS DENIED BOND IN SHOOTING

Ferrias Ferguson, 39 year old negro employe of the section gang of the Missouri-Pacific railroad in Gause, was shot to death at 7:15 a. M. Monday, July 18.

Giles Jordan, 45 year old white man and a mechanic at the Ditto Garage in Gause, was committed to jail in Cameron without bond following his arrest by Sheriff Carl Black a few minutes after the shooting.

Jordan was taken to the office of County Attorney Ed Gunn for questioning. He declined to make any statement and did not indicate whether he would ask for or waive a hearing. After the facts relating to the actual killing were assembled Jordan was denied bond and taken to jail. Developments in this case might follow in the next few days.

According to officials here Jordan has been a resident of Gause for the past 35 years and is currently employed by the Ditto garage.

According to details given by officers and witnesses to the shooting, the negro, who is employed by the section gang of the railroad, was sent to the J. A. Ely store early Monday morning to get 50 pounds of ice for the water keg for the gang getting ready to go out on the rails for the day. While at the store Ferguson bought some groceries. He held the groceries in one hand and carried the ice in the other. As he stepped out in the street Jordan was walking in the street with a 12 gauge shotgun and fired on the negro. The charge knocked Ferguson down. He got up and tried to escape but was shot a second time and died within a few minutes.

According to Sheriff Black the charges from the shotgun entered the left hip and side of the negro. County Attorney Ed Gunn said that at the time of the shooting that no words passed between the men; there was no quarrel or argument or anything that customarily leads up to trouble.

It was said that the men had engaged in a dispute sometime before the shooting but nothing was known about what had transpired between the men, if anything.

CAMERON SUFFERS LOSS IN SHIPPING SERVICES

To those who may have been complacent about the matter of taking off the passenger train service on the Texas & New Orleans Railroad between Waco and Yoakum, there is a side that may be more convincing.

Of course the railroad company made application to discontinue the passenger train, but so far as known there never was any decision to discontinue the mail contract with the government nor to take off baggage service.

Many who fought to keep the train held up the baggage issue as one reason why. Now, there has been another development, entirely unrelated to the fact that we may or may not have a train.

Railway Express has altered its policy. In order to cut down on overhead for the Cameron branch the Railway Express Company will not meet night trains. The reason is it would require an extra employe.

Through trains that do not stop here like the Santa Fe crack Chief, do not of course pick up express. The Railway Express Company is facing a new set up due to organized labor. On September 1 they cannot work an employe over a certain number of hours, so says the new labor contract. That in itself has caused a revamping of express services.

Two weeks ago Railway Express company stopped meeting trains on Sunday. That means of course their services are curtailed accordingly and they are not open for business on Sunday, except perhaps in some dire emergency.

All this has vitally affected Parcel Post. Take the case of the hatcheries, or producers of cream and eggs. Right now chicks that normally are sent out by parcel post under old services are taken to Temple. Never believed, did you, we would come to a time (turn to page twelve)

FUNERAL RITES FOR ROY TORNO SUNDAY

Funeral services for Roy Torno, native citizen of Cameron and widely known in the building trades, were held at 4 p. m. Sunday, July 17 from the chapel of the Green Funeral Home by Rev. Percy A. Corkern, pastor First Baptist Church. Interment was made in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Torno, who was 53 years old, was born in Cameron and had spent his entire life here and was a contractor-Carpenter. He was an expert designer and a blue print expert and in his profession his talents often took on the role of creative work.

As a great lover of nature Mr. Torno found time to go to the woods and along the streams where he read the unfolding story of a world few know about. He became interested in Indian lore and that interest led him to discover the dwelling places of ancient peoples. In so doing he amassed a large collection of Indian Flint work and other artifacts and was known widely over the state for his interest in Indian collections.

Mr. Torno died in Newton Memorial Hospital at 5:45 p. m. July 15. He had been ill for the past 6 months.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Amelia Torno of Cameron; one brother, Frank Torno of Cameron; two sisters, Mrs. Elberta Underwood and Miss Irene Torno of Houston; two nieces, Miss Ruth Underwood and Miss Leslie Rose Torno of Houston; and one nephew, Frank Torno, Jr., of Cameron. His father preceded him in death in 1929.

Mr. Torno was well liked by everyone for his gentle nature, high intellectual qualities and industry. To him life was a challenge and he accepted its hardships, joys and triumphs and left a monument to his memory that will measure more and more as the years go by in the hearts of his friends.

"Stink Street" Gets In Privy Limelight As Inrate Resident Moves To File Complaint

Anytime of day or night you walk along the west extension of First Street, beyond the tracks, you will, as Whitcomb Riley once said, know that human habitation is near.

While the old bard of nostalgic fame wrote some lingering verse about the privy, he more or less immortalized the gray, leaning object on the rural scene. But James Whitcomb Riley never walked along "Stink Street," in west Cameron, let alone live there, like some of the good Cameron people are forced to do while city officials deny any responsibility for those conditions.

Folks are getting pretty mad about filth. Last week one woman who says conditions are unbearable, sought out the city attorney to file a complaint. What will happen will be watched with interest. This morning another housewife who wants to be quoted, was looking for the city attorney to file complaints and said her neighbors want to file complaints. Well, that's one way to get action. Alderman Bob Terry says the legal arm of the government won't move against toilets on sewer lines unless complaints are filed. Bob said he would sign the complaints, but of course Bob never did. But two Cameron women have or will.

On her way down this morning Mrs. Melvin Weems ran across the Mayor and one alderman. "Why, do you know what they said? The Mayor said he 'has nothing whatever to do with it.' The alderman said 'I know everything you say is true but I can't do a thing.'"

Mrs. Weems says the street is now known as "Stink Street," and that there are about 6 toilets "right on the sewer line" and they are so bad the people there feel that something must be done. Of course nothing will be done, that is right now. It's going to take a lot of voting next February to get something done.

If complaints are filed, based on true facts and it can be shown that the law is being violated; that sanitary conditions are bad, there is a way. Don't take no for an answer. Take your case to the State Health Department. The city, according to the State Health Department is running sewage in the river and violating the anti-stream pollution act. The state is easy too, but after a while somebody in Cameron can't say "I don't have a thing to do with it and I can't do a thing about it."

Mrs. Weems is thoroughly indignant. She has the courage to say so. Many just suffer in silence but are none the less indignant. One of the things that has touched off city wide indignation is the $9.00 sewer charge (turn to page twelve)

Beef Calves Rounded Up After Wreck On Death Lane Here

A cattle truck taking 46 beef calves to the Houston live stock market was overturned and wrecked on highway 36 east of the City limits of Cameron about 3 miles on a dangerous curve Saturday morning.

According to officers the rear axle of the truck dropped to the pavement because of mechanical failure and this caused the trailer carrying the calves to overturn.

The driver escaped injury but two of the calves were crippled. This is one of the most dangerous curves on the entire highway and is at a down shoot near a large Citizens National Bank sign about 3 miles out.

The calves escaped from the truck scattered over the highway and into adjoining field and it was necessary for horsemen to be summoned. The calves were rounded up and taken to market.

A. F. MITCHELL GIVEN A BIG OVATION HERE

A. F. Mitchell of Corsicana, member of the Texas Highway Commission, came back to his old home in Cameron Tuesday and got an ovation from Milam county leaders that was as enthusiastic and as colorful as it was genuine.

As guest speaker at the luncheon hour of the Cameron Lions Club, he touched only briefly on highway and road programs, choosing "American Freedom versus Russian slavery," in a prepared expose of the "international conspiracy."

"I can think of no more profitable way to spend this time together today than by being realistic," he said by way of beginning. The address of some 4000 words was vibrant with the philosophy of freedom and incisive in its criticism of the Marxian theory that threatens the peoples of earth. In characteristic, without gloves handling of the subject, he revived old memories of the days when the county had the advantages of his wholesome, aggressive leadership. And they liked it.

Before he began to speak there was a bit of ceremony in which Judge Dan Tyson introduced the "honor guest. The combined membership and guest list brought around 100 leaders together for the occasion.

The introduction by Judge Tyson was a warm appraisal of Mr. Mitchell's record here and recited many of his achievements both as a professional engineer and as a figure in the industrial development of the state. Prominent in the laudations were frequent references to his civic service and as an active Presbyterian. Nearby at the speakers table sat Dr. W. R. Hall, Presbyterian Minister here who pastors the church built in large measure by gifts from Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mitchell. The minister gave the invocation.

Prominent among the guests was John C. Calhoun, Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, also a resident of Corsicana. Both Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Mitchell are (turn to page twelve)

GUARD BATTALION IN CITY GETS RECRUITS

One officer and four enlisted men were added to Battery C, 649th Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion's rolls during the past few days, Captain Rudolph E. Michalka reported this week.

The officer is Lt. Eugene A. Mees, he said. A former Marine T-Sgt. with three and a half years service during the war, Mees recently received a direct appointment as 2nd Lieutenant in the National Guard. He is employed by Burkes-Howard, local International Harvester dealer.

Battery C also has another officer, Capt. James T. Terry, attached to it for drill. Terry, formerly in the ORC, recently was appointed Captain in the National Guard and assigned to Headquarters Battery in Temple. He will, however, be attached to Battery C for drill.

"The addition of these two officers," Capt. Michalka said, "will make possible better training and instruction for the battery."

The four new enlisted men are: Billy J. Baggerly, Emil F. Horelica, Joe E. Wardlaw and John C. Komar, Jr. Baggerly and Wardlaw are clerks, Horelica is a farmer and Komar an employee of the gas company.

Joe Rowland and family of Lake Jackson spent the past week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Rowland. Friends will be glad to know that Mr. Rowland is greatly improved from injuries sustained in a car-train collision on May 17 at Brenham.

FIRST UNIT OF GUARD HEADQUARTERS BEGUN

Construction was begun here Wednesday on the first unit of the National Guard Army, it was announced by John C. Andres, President of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ed. Johnson of the Johnson Construction Company of Waco, was here Wednesday to stake off the site on which the motor transport building will be erected.

The National Guard Army will occupy a site of some 20 acres on Highway 36 west of the city limits, purchased by subscriptions from citizens through the Chamber of Commerce.

The motor maintenance building will cost around $50,000. To this initial expenditure will be added some $10,000 for roads, walks and utilities, including sanitary installations.

The army building is yet to be authorized. This building will cost around $400,000 or more. Cameron's Battalion of Anti Aircraft guardsmen will soon have good quarters. They are now using the old Grammar School on West Second Street.

The Battalion has been recruiting well. When the new buildings are complete auditorium space will be available for public use, something Cameron has wanted for a long time.

$1875 RIGHT OF WAY DAMAGE AWARDED

The Board of Review named by the Commissioners Court to pass upon demands of Mrs. Catherine Witt of Burlington that the county pay her $3375.00 for a right of way across her land recommended that the county pay $1875.00.

A hearing was had Friday with the board members present. They are Jim Mann of Yarrellton; Judd Davis and Sam McDermott of Cameron. The Board made its recommendation within a few minutes after Bill Wallace, attorney for Mrs. Witt and Emory B. Camp, attorney for the county, laid their cases before the members.

The land sought involves about 6 and a half acres. If Mrs. Witt accepts the recommendation she will get $300.00 an acre for her land. Other land owners got $100.00 or thereabout, but all signed willingly some months ago.

Mrs. Witt was asking for $975 for the land, $400 for fencing and $2000 damages for cutting through her farm at Burlington. Under the procedure the Commissioners Court can reject, but will not likely do so, or Mrs. Witt can reject. The Commissioners named to the board merely recommends what they think should be paid.

The Highway Commission may proceed with any plan it has, once a suit has been filed involving a right of way because settlement is then certain. Already a causeway is being constructed across Elm Creek and Walkers Creek on the highway between Cameron and Ben Arnold.

Stevenson Hints He May Get In Race For Governor

DALLAS, July 18 — The Dallas Morning News says former Gov. Coke Stevenson would run for another term 'if drafted by a tremendous amount of evidence that the people want him back in the capital.'

News political writer Allen Duckworth quoted Stevenson as saying in an interview on his ranch near Telegraph:

"I intend to retain my interest in public affairs.

"Whether I ever run for public office again is strictly in the hands of the people interested in good government."

The story quoted Stevenson as saying he had heard of a "draft" movement while in Austin to attend funeral services for the late Gov. Beauford Jester.

Asked what his reaction was, Stevenson replied, "I've been listening."

Texas Will Exceed Opportunity Bond Quota Says Adams

DALLAS, July 1 — Purchases of Series E Savings Bonds through Saturday, July 16, will be credited to county and state quotas in the Opportunity Drive.

This announcement was made in Dallas by Nathan Adams, Chairman of the Treasury Department's Advisory Committee for Texas, who explained that although the promotional phase of the drive ended June 30, the accounting period continues through July 16.

Adams said that Texas would substantially exceed its drive quota of $36,950,000 if sales continue at their present rate. He said that sales as of Saturday, June 25, were $32,637,000, or 88.3 per cent of the quota. He also reported that 79 counties already had exceeded their individual quotas and that the others were expected to do so by the end of the accounting period.

Mrs. Buford McMillion of Buckholts is recovering and resting well following an operation at Newton Memorial Hospital.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR NO BUDGET SLASHING

President Truman lashed out at economy advocates tonight, linking them with "selfish interests" who he said will drive the country "into a ditch," if they get their way.

But he said that even though many people "would like to have a depression for political reasons," the nation is not now in a depression nor does it face the prospect of one if the "selfish interests" are thwarted.

"The tools are at hand for continued economic expansion," Mr. Truman added. "All we need is the courage to use them."

He made plain he felt the tools were provided in the economic kit he handed to congress in a special message on Monday. They provide for expanded social welfare programs, government aid to spur lagging businesses and steps to ease the unemployment program.

In a special "fireside chat" with the American people—via the radio and television—the president to night defended his controversial plan for a temporary period of deficit financing (operating in the red) to stem the recession.

1. The $42,000,000 outlay he has budgeted for the current fiscal year is not a "waste of money" as he said the cut-federal-spending advocates charge. Rather, he said, it is an "investment in the future of America" which will pay "untold dividends in human happiness."

2. If those expenditures are slashed "we will decrease employment, cut down investment, weaken our defenses and injure our efforts for peace."

The President then went on to give an itemized accounting of the government's spending plans. He said $32,000,000,000 dollars of the total budget are allotted for by paying the costs of past war or for "insurance" against a new one in the form of defense outlays and the European recovery program.

"If anyone thinks it extravagant to maintain the peace," Mr. Truman said, then they should remember the fact that it cost "100 billion dollars to conduct the last war."

Turning to the domestic phases of the administration program, Mr. Truman said the remaining $10,000,000,000 of the budget total provides for all other functions of the government such as public works, farm price supports, education, and housing projects.

He declared that the "selfish interests" are striving to cut down those expenditures just as they put through the $5,000,000,000 tax slash in the 80th congress and blocked administration plans to combat inflation.

Citing the expansion and growth of the U. S. economy over its history, he said the nation must continue to expand production if it is to stay prosperous.

He insisted "we are not in a depression" but said "an increase in the number of people out of work is something to worry about, and is something that must be cured."

"If we were in a depression, I would be the first person to tell you, and I would call upon all the resources of this nation to stop it," Mr. Truman continued.

He reiterated that he was not recommending new taxes to make up the deficit because he did not want to "injure the economic health of the country."

The Paul Laakes Are Leaving For New York

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laake will leave Sunday for New York where they will visit in the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Neubach for several days.

They will be accompanied by their son, Paul Ray of Cameron and their daughter, Mrs. Cecil Starr and little daughter, Patricia of Houston. They expect to visit many points of interest before returning to Cameron.

Mr. Laake is with the postal service in Cameron. The party is traveling by car and will be able to tour a large section of the country.

NO MORE TAXES BUT DEFICIT SPENDING

President Truman in his economy report to the congress Monday changed his course by advocating 11 new laws to promote jobs and greater buying power as antedote to the so called recession and unemployment.

The President did not ask for more taxes. He did not lay down as a cure for emergency action an all out production effort. Instead he resorted to the old stand by of deficit spending.

Just what the reaction will be was uncertain.

It was pretty well assured that Congress would go ahead with laws to bolster the economy. The President, mentioned greater social security benefits, more help for the GI's, a public works program to be held in abeyance and trotted out if needed; and deficit spending.

The President on the whole was optimistic about the business outlook. He said benefits expansion would create buying power and more jobs could be had as a result of production and a shot in the arm for business.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Black and daughter Marion of Tulsa, Oklahoma spent several days in Cameron visiting his brother, Sheriff Carl Black and family.

GILMER-AIKIN SCHOOL COST $372,000,000

AUSTIN, July 8—Two key state officials estimated today that the Gilmer-Aikin school program would cost Texas about $372,000,000 the next two years.

The figure came from state Auditor C. H. Cavness and state Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, who make up the foundation school fund budget committee.

The two estimated that $66,000,000 must come out of the clearance funds to meet state-aid requests for the 1949-50 school year, and $74,000,000 for 1950-51.

In addition local school districts will contribute $45,000,000 annually and $72,000,000 will be taken from the available school fund each year.

"These figures are based on a total overall cost of the Gilmer-Aikin program of $182,000,000 for the first year and $190,000,000 the second year," Cavness and Calvert said.

Both emphasized that the estimates are subject to adjustment "and probably will be changed the first month after the actual grants have been made."

Later this month, Texans will learn a more definite estimate of the costs to reorganize the state school system. Schools have until July 20 to make preliminary application for extra state aid to assure their offering the minimum education program required by the G-A.

Mrs. Catherine Witt declined to give a deed to some six and a half acres of her land for the new route of the highway. COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By J. D. MOORE
County Agent

Milam County Cotton farmers have favorable prospects for a good cotton crop up to now. Farmers have been most cooperative and successful in controlling the flea hoppers and boll weevils with the new insecticides, both as a dust and spray. Next in order and most serious is the cotton bollworm, which is now injuring some of the old cotton. The boll worm moth is a brown butterfly which lays its eggs on top of the young leaves in the top of the cotton plant. The egg is round with a grayish color and can be seen easily. This egg hatches in from 4 to 7 days into a small worm. This small bollworm is very active and feeds on the outside of the small bolls and squares for 3 or 4 days until it is large enough to go inside the large cotton bolls.

It is during this small stage that we must take steps to kill the bollworm. Use 3-5-40 or Toxaphene at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds per acre just as soon as the small bollworm starts feeding. It may be necessary to repeat the dusting in 5 days to kill out further hatches.

John A. Smith, of the Branchville Community, and Fred Heintz, of the Silver City Community, have used one application of the 3-5-40 dust to control the bollworms. You may check their cotton for results.

Angular leafspot is a bacterial disease which becomes more serious during periods when we are having intermittent showers. This disease is pretty widespread over Milam County this year. This causes the spots now appearing on the cotton bolls. Seed treatment is supposed to help some, but there is really little that can be done at this stage.

Traffic Disasters National Menace Says Patrol Inspector C. G. Conner Here

Traffic accident tolls in America are the gravest menace we have today, declared Inspector C. G. Conner of the Texas Highway Patrol, in an address to the Rotary Club Wednesday.

Inspector Conner was here on invitation of Jack Higginbotham, local patrolman who was assigned to duty in Corsicana where funeral services were held for the late Governor Jester.

Inspector Conner, a forceful speaker, kept his audience in stitches most of the time with prize stories from the book of good old every day experience, most of them pertinent to the great traffic problems of the day.

He said the average citizen has not as yet fully awakened to the terrible significance of thousands dead every year from highway accidents, 95 per cent of them, absolutely preventable. He listed three natural deterrents to this phase of national suicide. They are education on better safety methods, law enforcement and public co-operation to stamp it out. He said that people who get in an automobile and kill other people are criminals whether they like the term or not. He said we become alarmed when we note that certain large sums were lost to burglars last year and that murder as such took a great toll, yet we never get excited about 60 millions in property damage through car wrecks and in Texas alone 1500 dead in a year.

We have not found the capacity as yet to assimilate our modern conveniences, he said, meaning that the machine is a blessing, yet the most deadly menace we have in the hands of careless and thoughtless people on the highways.

Betty June McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McDonald of Freeport is recovering from a short illness at Newton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kurtz and Evelyn and Billy Jistel spent Saturday with their brother, Milton in San Marcos who is a student at SWTSTC.

BAYLOR STUDENT DIED IN CRASH AT MARLIN

Miss Sallie Davison, 18 year old Baylor University student, was killed and two other persons were seriously injured shortly after noon Thursday when their car crashed into a concrete bridge about seven miles south of Marlin on Highway 6.

Injured were: Miss Yvonne Fields, 19, of Pharr, a classmate of Miss Davison at Baylor, and Jimmy Cullen Rogers, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Rogers of Marlin. (Cullen Rogers is a former Mart and Texas A&M football player). Miss Fields has been visiting Miss Davison at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davison, in Reagan.

Miss Davison and Miss Fields had been conducting vacation Bible schools throughout this area during the Summer months. They had just completed a school at Rosebud and were conducting one at Blue Ridge, in Falls County, this week.

No witnesses to the crash had been found tonight. Sheriff Brady Pamplin fixed the time of the tragedy at 12:20 p. m.

Brittain Moore of Reagan discovered the accident as he returned to his job at Marlin from Reagan. He said he passed the car crumpled against the concrete post at the north end of the bridge and thought at first it was unoccupied.

He stopped a short distance from the wreckage and asked a farmer driving a tractor when the crash occurred and was told it must have just happened.

Among the new patients at Newton Memorial Hospital are: Mrs. Joe Kotrola, Giles Burnett of Route 3, Maebelle Williams, Jerry Richards, Herman Sutter, Route 1, and Myrl Gilbert, Route 2.

GREENVILLE SENATOR SUCCEEDS SHIVERS

Senator Kyle Vick of Waco missed the Lieutenant Governorship of Texas Monday when Alan Shivers moved into the governor's office following the death of Governor Jester.

G. C. Morse of Greenville became Lieutenant Governor to succeed Shivers.

Senator Morse was elected President of the Texas Senate for the interim period and will therefore succeed to the second ranking office.

Senator Kyle Vick had served as President of the Senate during the late session and had been named for the interim term he would have been Lieutenant Governor.

Senator Morse was elected President for the period the legislature is in adjournment, but will now become the presiding officer in the Senate when the Legislature convenes and until a Lieutenant Governor is elected.

Friends here had not been aware of the election of Senator Morse for the interim due to the confusion in the closing days of the session, the change having been lost in the volume of news out of Austin.

This newspaper telephoned to-day to ascertain the facts.

Play Program At Marlow Church Is Going Over Big

The church in the role of entertainment sponsor is a growing idea. At least the Marlow Baptist Church is making the plan pay off in a big way.

The church has just completed a playground and it is an answer to the plan for a fellowship program. They have installed lights for night games and there are two tennis tables, a croquet court, a volley ball court and horse shoes.

The people of the community are responding well to this new rural entertainment plan.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Greenlees and sons, Sidney and Joe Frank arrived Saturday morning from Houston where they had visited for a week. Mr. Greenlees returned to his home in Freer Sunday and Mrs. Greenlees and sons remained for a longer visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Deer. Other week end guests in the Deer home were: Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Deer of San Benito, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Deer of Houston and Dink Deer of Lott. Mr. and Mrs. Deer will return to Freer Sunday where they will visit in the Greenlees and George Deer homes. While in South Texas they will also visit their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Pro Deer at Hebbbronville.

Mrs. R. B. Rylander, Jr., of Austin was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Williams a few days last week.

Mrs. William G. Gillis, Jr., and daughter Georgia are visiting Mrs. Graham Gillis in Cameron this week.

Engineers Give Answer to Problem of Texas Weather

Faced with the ups and downs of Texas weather, engineers have produced a new motor oil that stays thin for easy flowing in cold weather, yet stays full-bodied and tough on hot days. The new product, Humble Esso Extra Motor Oil, has the highest resistance to temperature changes of any motor oil in Texas, or anywhere else, according to Humble Company technicians. The technical name for this quality is high viscosity index; Humble scientists add that high viscosity index is a good guide to high motor oil quality. Humble station salesmen are urging customers to drain dirty, diluted oil and refill with new Esso Extra Motor Oil for extra protection. Adv.

Plain Facts

Fundamentally merchandising is a problem of salesmanship.

There was a time . . . but no more . . . when the few folks who lived here . . . required little. Life has changed all that. Now it is as much a question of choice as salesmanship.

So, what do smart merchants do. They employ a salesman . . . the greatest salesman in the world. His name is Advertising.

How to employ that salesman: Set him up on your payroll at what you would pay a clerk. Spend that money with your newspapers. You'll be surprised what will happen to your business.

J. V. Nance, Zone Manager, will preside and, with his staff, will relay to dealers technical and descriptive data on the Special which they obtained during a field sales organization convention in Flint, Michigan July 11-18.

EARLY MORNING FIRE FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

Fire produced by an explosion partially destroyed the M. M. Chambers building on South Fannin street at 3 a. m. today.

Arson is strongly suspected by officers and fire department officials who said that the fire was preceded by an explosion and the presence of gasoline or coal oil beneath the floor of the negro section of the bar was said by officers to offer substantial evidence that the building may have been purposely ignited.

The building, erected 65 years ago, was owned by the late M. M. Chambers who died recently and had been in use for many years as a cafe and bar. A portion of the building was used for a barber shop. It was said that the loss would be about $2,000 and covered by insurance.

Fire Marshal John P. Eanes said early Thursday that the fire started beneath the floor on the south side and was preceded by an explosion. "I am certain that the building was set on fire because there is too much evidence that such was the case," he said.

Marshall Terry, Night City Marshal, said that following the fire alarm he saw an automobile, a one seated car, speeding west on 2nd street then turned north and headed toward highway 77 in the direction of Rosebud.

Mann Arnold, taxi driver for Richter Transfer, was quoted as saying that shortly after the explosion he saw someone he took to be a man running away from the scene of the fire. Mr. Arnold, it was said heard an explosion and then saw flames shoot into the air.

The business was closed following the death of Mr. Chambers on Thursday, June 16.

It was said here Thursday morning that the business had been leased to Lee Marek who owns the Star Lite Club. Mr. Marek had done considerable work cleaning and re-arranging the interior of the building in preparation for opening on Saturday of this week.

ARSON OFFENSE HERE BRINGS IN OFFICIALS

Insurance investigators were on the job in Cameron Wednesday and worked with local officers in an effort to develop evidence on which arson charges can be made in connection with the fire in the building on south Fannin, belonging to Mrs. M. M. Chambers.

Officers here would make no statement. They said they could not say anything until an arrest had been made and at present there was nothing tangible on which they could base charges.

It was known that the officers have strong suspicions and may have some clues but they did not feel at liberty to talk.

Fire destroyed, or partially destroyed the building formerly owned by the late M. M. Chambers. This building housed a bar and cafe and a barber shop. Fire was discovered following an explosion around 3:15 a. m. Thursday.

John P. Eanes, Fire Marshal, was leading out in the investigation and co-operating with officers. He said Thursday that there is no question about the arson angle. The building was deliberately set, he said.

Fuel to ignite the building was believed to have been poured beneath the flooring on the south side. Then to avoid explosion hazards the arsonist made a trail of fuel some distance from the building and set fire to it.

Statements were taken Thursday from those who were near when the explosion occurred.

A man was seen running away from the building shortly after the explosion. A night officer in the city saw a car, a one seated car, speed away from the scene of the fire. He said the car turned west on Second and north in the direction of Highway 77.

One report indicated the make of car and the color, and that it was a coupe.

Arson is one of the more serious crimes for which there is no suspension of sentence. Officers know also how hard it is to get evidence and conviction in connection with such charges.

Insurance companies will go to the bottom of the matter and before the case is closed much more may be known than was available for publication Friday.

Witnesses said they heard an explosion and flames shot high. The fire quickly spread and a second alarm was sounded. Fire Chief, Ralph Michalka, said he did not know what had been developed in the case but is convinced from all indications the fire was incendiary in origin.

The premises had been leased to Lee Marek of the Star Lite Club and was to have been opened Saturday.

DEATH LANE 36 GETS ANOTHER VICTIM

A treacherous highway took additional toll early Tuesday morning a short distance west of Buckholts.

A large trailer truck belonging to the Temple Feed and Fuel Company was overturned and the driver and his wife and child were injured, the mother critically.

According to highway patrol officers the truck was driven by a negro and in the cab with him was his wife and baby. The mother sustained critical injuries, among them a badly lacerated arm and was rushed to a Temple hospital. The driver sustained leg injuries. The baby miraculously escaped death.

The truck was heavily loaded with grain and was proceeding east on Highway 36 in the direction of Cameron when the accident occurred. It was said the driver was attempting to make one of the numerous curves on this highway when the truck was overturned. Highway 36 has become a death lane through Milam County because of the incredible crookedness of the road. Numerous deaths have occurred under increased traffic on this highway which cuts off 20 miles going to Houston from North and West Texas.

The Texas highway department has authorized a new survey on highway 36 from Cameron to the Bell County line with the view of re-locating and improving this road.

Texas Town Is Shaken Up Over Health Facts Revealed In Report Of Young Physician

SEYMOUR, July 9—Your child is the picture of health, isn't he? Never an ache or pain. Perfect physical specimen.

That's what the folks of this town believe, too, about their youngsters. That is, they believed it until a young doctor just out of the Army Medical Corps teamed up with a young school superintendent. Their resulting school health survey shocked the town.

Here are the figures:

Students, 1,100. Needing medical attention, 750. Many children virtually blind, although they didn't know it. Sixteen children with bad hearts, (turn to page six) eleven with hernias and—pardon the word—15 had itch.

Seymour is a West Texas town, population about 4,000. The kids are tanned and healthy looking. They get all the fresh air they can breathe. Hundreds of vigorous farm children pour into the schools each year. Poverty so extreme that children can't get the proper diet is almost unknown. The children are as healthy as those anywhere.

That's why the town was so surprised.

The facts wiped out opposition which had threatened to block the health program. The findings sent parents scrambling to doctors to have their children's defects removed and illness treated.

By then, the whole community had pitched in to help.

Teachers got a different shock this Spring as they tabulated grades:

Scholastic failures, they found, had dropped 40 per cent in grammar school.

Supt. J. W. Hamilton said that eye corrections, for example, "made all the difference in the world. Even the general health of pupils with eye defects improved with corrections."

Hamilton is a youngish graduate of the University of Oklahoma. He was superintendent at Minneka, Okla., before coming here four years ago.

His teammate in getting the health program started was Dr. Charles Morris Randall Jr., in the Army, he had plenty of experience in mass health examinations. As practicing physician, he doubles as city health officer.

Says Dr. Randall: "As far as we can find out, this was the most complete check-up and the first on this scale ever held in a Texas school."

Highway 36 Route Through City Is Asked By Committee

Consultation with J. E. Blair, District Engineer for the Texas State Highway Department, was held in Bryan last week about the route of Highway 36 through Cameron.

E. A. Perrin, Mayor Griffith and L. G. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce sought a recommendation for the route to follow the present course through Santa Fe town.

It was said that a number of routes out of Cameron are under consideration. Re-location of Highway 36 is believed inevitable and the Highway Commission usually avoids tortuous through city routes where possible.

The Commissioners Court will no doubt be advised soon about the right of way, its location and required acreage.

ROY TORNO DIED HERE LATE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Roy Torno, 53, for many years a resident of Cameron, died around 6 p. m. Friday, July 15 in Newton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Torno became ill early this year and has been in a critical condition for sometime. He was taken to the hospital some days ago for treatment, his condition most critical.

Funeral services were to be held Sunday, July 17 at 4:00 p. m. from the chapel of the Green Funeral Home in Cameron by Rev. Percy A. Corkern, pastor of First Baptist Church. Interment will be made in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are one brother, Frank Torno of Cameron, well known business man, his mother, Mrs. Amelia Torno of Cameron.

Mr. Torno had been identified with the building trades in Cameron for the past 25 years and was widely known. His death came with deep sorrow to the hearts of men who were associated with him in construction circles, as well as friends in all other fields of business and professions here. The condition of his health was known only to a few intimate friends and to his family.

He was born in 1896 and no information was available at the time of this issue as to the place of his birth. He had lived in Cameron a major portion, if not all his life.

Some years ago Mr. Torno became interested in Indian lore and had amassed a large collection of Indian relics. He knew well the village areas and locations of the Aborigines who inhabited this area of Texas many centuries ago and took great delight in gathering artifacts and other things relating to the early Americans.

Campaign Mapped To Draft Coke For Governor

LONGVIEW, July 16—E. C. Johnston, Jr., of Longview said today a group of East Texas supporters of Coke Stevenson had mapped a campaign to draft Stevenson to run for governor next year.

Johnston said the group met yesterday and appointed Roy G. Terry of Kilgore state chairman to direct the movement.

Terry owns and operates radio station KOCA in Kilgore. Johnston said Terry was working out details of the campaign; that Stevenson "is expected to release an announcement soon regarding his availability as a candidate in next year's race."

Johnston is an oil producer and drilling contractor. He is part owner and resident of the Longview baseball club and a member of the city commission.

Last year he was the unofficial Gregg county campaign manager for Stevenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Paly Wink of Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Busker and Carol Ann of Lott and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Johnson and family of Kansas were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Dake Sunday. Mr. Johnson is a nephew of H. L. Dake.

MILAM COUNTY NOT LISTED IN AWARDS

AUSTIN— July 17—Eight Central Texas counties will get approximately 115 miles of rural roads costing more than $1,000,000 during the next two years as their share of the $30,000,000 rural road program authorized by the recent legislature.

The state highway commission in a weekend meeting approved the designation of the roads. Some will follow the route of county roads already in existence, while some will require new purchases of right-of-way by the counties.

Bell county got three projects totaling 17.5 miles and costing an estimated $168,900 under the new program. The county's projects are:

From the end of proposed Farm-Market 3.6 miles east of Troy to the Falls county line at Belfalls, approximately 3.4 miles;

From State 95 at Bartlett east to road intersection, approximately 6.6 miles;

From U. S. 81, two miles south of Troy, to State 317, with a connection to Pendleton, approximately 7.5 miles.

Roads constructed under the Colson-Briscoe bill will be built entirely with state money, although counties must supply right-of-way where needed. There is no federal money available for matching the state funds. The money for the program starts becoming available Sept. 1 at the rate of $1,250,000 a month.

Designations for other Central Texas counties are as follows:

Coryell county: from the end of Farm-Market 182 at Turnersville to the end of Farm-Market 928 at the Bosque county line, approximately 7.2 miles; from the end of Farm-Market 183 at Purnela to the Hamilton county line, approximately 7.6 miles; from the end of Farm-Market 185 at Osage east to the McLennan county line, approximately .4 mile; estimated cost, $150,100.

Lampasas county: from Farm-Market 580 in Lampasas south-west to Burnet county line, 3.5 miles; from the end of Farm-Market 582 at Rumley northeast to road intersection near Coryell county line, five miles; estimated cost, $68,300.

Williamson county: from State 29 at Whitestone school to the Travis county line, 1.8 miles; from State 95 at Bartlett west to Schwertner, 5.8 miles; from State 104 at Jonas, south to road intersection, 3.8 miles; from U. S. 79, east of Thrall, to Hare, 6.2 miles; from U. S. 81, south of Round Rock, to the Travis county line, 1.9 miles; estimated cost, $179,800.

Hamilton county: from Farm-Market 932, south of Hamilton, to Ohio, 11.6 miles; from the end of Farm-Market 218, west of Indian Gap to Mills county line, .6 mile; from State 22 at Lanham south to road intersection, 4.7 miles; estimated cost, $131,900.

McLennan county: from the end of Farm-Market 434 at Asa, south to the Falls county line, 1.3 miles; from U. S. 81 at Eddy southeast to Falls county line, .2 mile; from State 317 at Crawford to Coryell county line, 8.9 miles; estimated cost, $95,800.

Bosque county: from the end of Farm-Market 56 at Cayote to State 22, 9.2 miles; from State 6 at Iredell 7.1 miles; estimated cost, $123,300.

Safety Driving Will Be Taught In Schools

Safety driving may be taught in the schools of the county now that the bus has become standard for transporting children, it was disclosed by Chas. M. Hicks, county superintendent.

Mr. Hicks revealed that this course will be available in at least two of the schools under the jurisdiction of the superintendent's office. They are Buckholts and Sharp.

Mrs. Coy Arledge, superintendent at Buckholts, and C. F. Bell, superintendent at Sharp, have just completed Drivers Education and Training course at San Marcos College.

Mr. Hicks hopes to get a dual control motor vehicle of the type necessary for courses of instruction.

Such courses are strictly advanced education safety work in schools and Milam county is to be commended for this forward step.

Friends will regret to learn Mrs. Myrtle Riddle is among the patients ill in Newton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Weems Is Told Woman Can't File A Complaint; Privy Row Yields Up New Problem

Mrs. Melvin Weems was a bit disappointed Tuesday morning when she was told that a woman cannot file a complaint.

Mrs. Weems, latest militant figure in the war along Privy Row, said: "What do you know. He told me a woman cannot file a complaint. A bunch of widow women would be in a bad shape, it seems to me. Well, anyhow my husband will be home this week end and he will sign the complaints, if the law prohibits women from filing complaints on a matter so vital as sanitation and our health."

Mrs. Weems went on to say: "I think it strange they could count the women votes."

If the law does not recognize complaints filed by a woman, then another case reported would be ruled out also. Maybe the husband will oblige.

Getting something done about enforcing sewerage connections in Cameron is a continuous "run-around." The city is losing much needed revenue by not enforcing the ordinance and the people of the city are called on to pay $9.00 where they paid $3.00.

People living in the privy areas who have connected their property with the sewer lines can get relief. Mrs. Weems is right. They have to count a ballot cast by a woman. If there are enough of them cast, Cameron can be a better place to live in.

One thing you must keep in mind, that is the people who are penalized in these areas: Folks who live in the areas where they spent all the money, a part of which you paid, are not stirred up about privies. In fact they kinda enjoy your plight. They sort of look down on your section of the city. Now, there is nothing wrong with you or your section of the city. They just took your share of the benefits of taxation and that was that. You haven't been wise with your ballot. Then too, the city council, has been able to get elected with your help and look how they have treated you. Honest it looks like we got some people here who think pore folks ought to just keep on smelling the things. And they will too until they get sense enough to know what to do with a poll tax.

The Aldermen get $12.50 every time they meet. It's a shame city hall isn't located on "Stink Street."

30C INCREASE MADE IN STATE AD VALOREM LEVY

AUSTIN, July 18—The State ad valorem tax rate for this year will be fixed automatically at 72 cents on the $100 valuation tomorrow.

This will represent a 30-cent increase over the property tax rate of last year. The 51st Legislature actually set the rate of the new levy, and tomorrow's meeting of the State Tax Board actually will be "perfunctory," the Governor's office said.

There has been an increase of $146,263,139 in the valuation on which the State property tax will be levied, the comptrollers office announced. The total valuation for 1949 was set at $5,295,992,054.

The 30-cent additional levy is for general revenue purposes. The remainder of the 72 cents is collected for specified purposes—35 cents for the State school fund, 5 cents for the college building fund, and 2 cents for the Confederate pension fund.

Thus, if you paid $8.40 in State taxes on property assessed at $2,000 last year, you will pay $14.40 on the same valuation this year.

By constitutional amendment, Texans voted last November to discontinue the 30-cent general ad valorem tax after 1958. However, they authorized counties to levy that additional amount thereafter for soil conservation, flood control or road-building purposes.

Prior to the Legislature's making the tax levy compulsory for 1949 and 1950, the automatic tax board had levied the tax only when it appeared the revenue would be needed to help cover appropriations.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert and State Treasurer Jesse James will attend tomorrow's routine meeting of the board. Governor Allan Shivers, the third member, will not be present.

Statistician Ballard Clark of the comptroller's office estimated the 72 per cent rate will bring 28 million dollars, of which approximately $4,250,008 will be remitted to counties for various purposes.

Pvt. Annie Mae Simmons is spending a ten day furlough with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Simmons before assuming her duties at Camp Prsido at San Frisco, California, where she will be in the Administrative Section at Headquarters. Pvt. Simmons has been stationed at Camp Lee, Virginia for some time.

MURDER CHARGES ARE FILED AT CENTERVILLE

CENTERVILLE, July 14—Sheriff Ber Lee said today his life had been threatened since he shot a man to death here last Saturday.

As a result, Lee said, he asked for Highway Patrol and Texas Ranger protection. Eight patrolmen and a ranger have been patrolling streets here most of the time since the shooting, he said.

Lee said he shot Tom Bill Featherstone, 29, during a scuffle. He said he was trying to arrest the heavily built man for "disturbing the peace and being drunk."

"The patrolmen and the ranger came at my request and as a result of threats made against me," Lee said. "They're not here right now. The patrolmen went to attend the Governor's funeral. But they'll be back."

A charge of murder without malice was filed against the sheriff with the justice of peace at nearby Buffalo. At an examining trial Lee was released without bond, on his own recognizance.

Lee gave this account: "Saturday afternoon I was driving down the main street here when Featherstone hollered at me and cursed me, telling me to come and get him.

"I tried to arrest him. He attempted several times to take my gun away from me. I shot twice. The first time I missed Featherstone but two bystanders were hit. The second time I got Featherstone in the right chest."

At Houston, Miss Bernice Featherstone, a sister of Bill Featherstone, said her brother was shot in the back and not in the chest as stated by Lee.

"His skull was fractured, with a break a half-inch wide in the skull," she said. "This was done while he was being beaten into semi-consciousness."

He was lying in the street, face down, when he was shot," she added. "The bullet entered his back at the waistline, about a half inch from the spine. It still is lodged in the body. The bullet did not break the exterior of the chest."

The sheriff said he immediately called a doctor and an ambulance, but that Featherstone died enroute to a hospital. The bystanders, Weldon Bell, about 27, hit in the arm, and Jamie Craig, a Negro, about 40, hit in the leg, were not seriously hurt, Lee said.

After the shooting he learned of threats against his life, Lee said.

"No threats have been made to my face, but I have learned of them," he related. "I think the whole thing has about simmered down by now, though."

Featherstone spent most of his life as a farmer and stockraiser in this area. He worked in a Texas City war plant. Lee said he returned here only recently. The sheriff said Featherstone also was a rodeo performer and had appeared at numerous Texas rodeos.

Featherstone, about six feet tall and weighing about 185 pounds, was buried Monday. A widow, two sons, his mother, three sisters and two brothers survive.

The sheriff said that some time ago he and two men tried to jail Featherstone but that he resisted so savagely "we never did get him in."

SHIVERS TAKES OATH AT WOODVILLE FARM HOME

Allan Shivers took the oath of office of Governor of Texas at 9:45 a. m. at his farm home near Woodville Saturday morning.

The 41 year old Lieutenant governor fell heir to the governorship when Beauford H. Jester died last Monday, July 11.

District Judge Clyde Smith of Woodville, administered the oath. Some 1500 attended the ceremonies, a simple arrangement by neighbors who pitched in to help out. Shivers owns a farm near Woodville, a pine log house with rich appointments but still rural enough to smack of the log cabin.

Shivers became governor in fact Monday. He postponed his oath taking until after final funeral rites for Jester—held Wednesday at Corsicana.

The new governor worked in his office at Austin Thursday and traveled alone by train Friday reaching his Woodville home around 4 p. m. Friday.

A brief address by the new governor was broadcast over two major Texas networks. Veterans of Foreign Wars and members of the American Legion formed an honor guard.

The scene of his induction is an elaborate pine log home. It is set in pinel near the Livingston Highway or a spot where the Shivers family established a deep East Texas residence more than 100 years ago. Allan Shivers was born in Lufkin, but his parents moved to Woodville when he was about a year old.

Young Bill's no child prodigy. But he does have a pretty bright father.

Back in 1942, when the Payroll Savings Plan of buying U.S. Bonds began, Bill's father signed up fast. He didn't make a very impressive salary, but he was bound that his son was going to have a chance to go to college.

And (we said he was bright) he realized right away that the Payroll Savings Plan offered the best possible opportunity for saving up the boy's tuition. The safest, easiest way of saving in the world, with $10 paid back for every $7.50 invested.

So, since 1942 those "college education" Bonds have been growing, right along with Bill. He's seventeen now, and he writes home from college that he thinks Yale, and his father, are pretty wonderful.

BIG THINGS are happening in America's biggest state!

YES, Texas leads the nation in aggressive industrial expansion. All along Southern Pacific's 3630 miles of line in this great state, numerous and varied construction programs are being rapidly completed. These progressive activities encompass all phases of business, commerce, and industry; and collectively, are contributing importantly to a permanent prosperity which is destined to play an increasingly impressive part in our national economy.

With the firm belief that a railroad's growth is tied in closely with the growth of the area it serves, Southern Pacific has as its constant aim the creation of a greater Texas through the advancement of Texas resources. As the foremost transportation agency in the state since pioneer days, SP continues to take a large and active part in the development of this area's enterprises . . . assisting in the assembling of primary supplies, equipment, and raw materials; and in the distribution and marketing of manufactured products.

Southern Pacific's well organized Industrial Department works closely and confidentially with manufacturers seeking to locate in Texas, furnishing accurate information on matters which might affect their selection of a site; such as water supply, labor, taxes, transportation facilities, power, fuel, property availability, and cost.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR EXPANSION PROGRAM is an investment in the future of its territory...evidence of SP's intention to serve its patrons with the finest rail transportation.

Included in this program are plans, now well under way, to streamline and diesel-power the SUNSET LIMITED, Southern Pacific's famous trans-continental limited between New Orleans and Los Angeles. This $15,000,000 improvement project will afford the finest in luxurious accommodations for travelers along the route between these two cities. In addition, many millions of dollars are being spent for new freight equipment . . . improved roadbeds . . . modern communications facilities . . . and other equally important items. In short, SP's expansion plans provide for everything necessary to maintain the Southern Pacific System's position as the largest railroad west of the Mississippi.

HUDSON ENGINE MADE FOR ADVANCED FUELS

Hudson Motor Car Company revealed today that the Hudson Super-Six and Super-Eight engines are in reality high-compression engines capable of providing the compression ratios required to burn one, hundred octane gasoline and in fact up to 12.5 to 1 when super high-octane fuels become available, according to Horstmann Bros., local Hudson dealers.

In making the announcement, President A. E. Barit said that the exceptional performances of the Super-Six and Super-Eight engines that power the low silhouette Hudsons, such as are now being freely reported by owners of these cars, are only an indication of what these power plants are really capable of doing when adapted to high octane fuels.

"The full possibilities inherent in the engines await only the proper distribution of these fuels," he explained.

"Using today's standard gasoline of low octane rating, Hudson's Super-Six engine has a compression ratio of 7.12 to 1 with an aluminum head and the Super-Eight, 7 to 1. Adapted for higher compressions and using 100 octane fuel—the highest which the petroleum industry has indicated that it might produce—both engines will be supplied with a compression ratio of approximately 9.3 to 1. If fuels of higher octane rating than 100 become available, the requisite compression will be provided.

"The ratio of 9.3 to 1 with 100 octane fuel has shown remarkable power increases, improved acceleration and performance and greater economy."

In commenting on the developmental work done by Hudson on high compression, Mr. Barit pointed out that the company has been pioneering in the field of higher compressions for over thirty years.

"Hudson engineering laboratories," he said, "have produced a long line of engines of successively higher compression ratios, beginning with the initial Super-Six in 1915, the first great forward high compression step in the industry."

"Every engine we have built since that time has been a high-compression engine. As a matter of fact, we have thought that no engine was worthy of the name Hudson unless it was of the high-compression type."

"Hudson's latest contribution toward ever higher compressions is the new Super-Six engine introduced on the new Hudson last year and at 121 horsepower the most powerful mass-produced six on the market."

Mr. Barit declared that this engine was conceived during the war, when high octane fuels were in greater supply than ever before and when predictions were that soon such fuels would be in common use. Hudson, therefore, designed the engine strong enough so that it could keep pace with the expected changes in the fuel situation.

"We had an engine way ahead of its time when our design was finished," he explained. "When it became obvious that higher octane fuels would not be immediately available, it then became an easy matter to arrange this high-compression design for present day fuels."

"All components of the engine were engineered and designed to the increased load requirements of high compressions. Thus, increasing the compression ratios can be done any time the necessary high-octane fuels become available."

"This applies to the Super-Eight as well."

Hudson's Super-Eight engine, which has proved to be one of the most efficient engines ever produced, develops the highest horse-power per cubic inch displacement of any motor used in any full-sized car on the market, Mr. Barit said. He added that in the development of this engine a great deal of work was done on high compressions, with experimental engines built even before the war that were capable of using 100 octane fuel.

"Increased rigidity was built into the Super-Eight as a result of this research," he stated, "and naturally, when the design of the new Super-Six engine was begun, the high-compression lessons already learned on the Eight became an important part of our policy in the development of the new Super-Six."

Mr. Barit revealed that the Super-Six and Super-Eight engines have shown such remarkable performance in the hands of owners that many dealers have been urging Hudson to fully inform the public of the facts on the background and high-compression potentialities of these unusual engines. He said that this was the reason the company had decided to release the full story at this time.

Hudson engines utilize the L-head principle, which the company believes has several advantages over other valve arrangements. It has fewer parts and, as has been proved in these engines, will develop more horsepower in an automotive engine than any other type of valve arrangement and is less costly. The particular advantage of the L-head principle in a high compression engine is that it permits the use of an aluminum head, whose heat dissipating characteristics permit even higher compressions than possible with the cast-iron head supplied with overhead valve design.

Hudson's Super-Six and Super-Eight engines are the end results of 40 years of engineering know-how, which in the past has enabled Hudson to capture every important stock-car record on the books. They are a natural development in the long history of Hudson engineering and research in the field of efficient, economical automobile engines.

More than 30 years ago, Hudson took the first major stride toward today's high compression achievement. In 1915 the company perfected, and at the New York Show of 1916 displayed, the first Hudson Super-Six engine. This history-making motor featured the first fully balanced crankshaft, which made possible a car so much smoother and faster, that it revolutionized automobile engine design. This crankshaft is in universal use today.

The Super-Six engine, the high-compression engine of the day, had a compression ratio of 5 to 1, a truly great improvement over other engines of the time.

As a result of the fully balanced crankshaft, a marked increase in engine speed, with additional smoothness, was attained with the Super-Six. This, together with the advance in compression ratio, made possible a remarkable increase in horsepower.

Getting as much horsepower as possible out of an automobile engine had been Hudson's chief purpose in designing the original Super-Six. The extent to which the increased engine speed and higher compression ratio made that possible is indicated in the relative horse-power measurements: The first Super-Six increased a 48 horsepower output to 76, without increasing the bore or stroke of the previous engine.

The engine also made possible remarkable economy increases.

That first Super-Six, with its early day high compression features, was the first of the famous Hudson L-head engines whose development over the years led directly to the present high-compression engines that Hudson produces. While during this period there were many advancements in engines, improvements in compression ratios were limited by fuel developments. And so it is in this field of higher compressions where there is the greatest opportunity for further gain.

The years of knowing research and experimentation by company engineers as Hudson engines developed to their present power and efficiency were marked by many innovations and "firsts."

Hudson introduced aluminum alloy pistons in 1921, and began use of lighter-weight, greater-strength reciprocating parts that same year. Later, Hudson began using chrome-alloy cylinder blocks, marking the introduction of these extra-hard, long-wearing blocks in the lower-priced field. These blocks, the hardest in the industry, wear infinitely longer than conventional cast-iron blocks and thus greatly reduce the necessity for the costly regrinding and rebuilding jobs which so often lay up cars for lengthy periods in service stations.

In 1934 the company pioneered the first "pinned" piston rings in American cars and followed this by introducing the first six-cylinder dual carburetion in 1937.

These and many other "firsts" reflect Hudson's longstanding policy of continually stressing increased power with improved economy in engines. It is this policy which is responsible for Hudson leadership in the development of the most powerful mass-produced six on the market today and which will lead the industry to even further power advances when high-octane fuels become universally available in the future.

COTTON LEADERS PLAN HANDLING 1949 CROP

DALLAS, July 18—Farmers, bankers and agricultural officials from cotton-growing states west of the Mississippi met here today to discuss handling of the federal government's 1949 cotton loan to farmers.

C. D. Walker, director of the Agriculture department's cotton branch, said farmers in early producing areas this year will be able to get federally-approved loans from private lending agencies on cotton picked and ginned before Aug. 1.

On that date, the parity price will be announced, and regular price-support loans will be available for 90 per cent of the parity price, he said. The advance loans may be converted later into regular loans, said Walker, and may be made on any interest rate agreed upon by the farmer and the lending agency.

The new system eliminates the interim loans of former years, when many farmers in areas like the lower Rio Grande valley had to negotiate two loans—one before Aug. 1 and one afterwards.

Loans are made by private banks, co-operatives, or other government-approved lending agencies. They are backed by the production and marketing administration through the Commodity Credit corporation.

Local Man Facing Murder Trial In Marlin July 18

Geronimo Carrizales will go on trial in Marlin on July 18 on a charge of murder growing out of the slaying of Jesus Eugalus in Rosebud on March 20.

Carrizales was placed under arrest at his home on the H. F. Smith plantation near Hanover following the Rosebud shooting. Terry Dickens, former District Judge in Falls County, will defend Carrizales.

According to Sheriff Black, at the time of the shooting the trouble occurred around 7 p. m. in Rosebud. Carrizales and his brother had attended a ball game. After the game they drove to the Mexican quarter where it was said threats were made against them. When Sugalus and others sought to take his brother from the car, Geronimo shot Sugalus with a 38 calibre pistol.

Chrysler Has Water Proof Ignition As Advanced Feature

Rain, snow, fog or other moisture is practically eliminated as a hazard to starting or a cause of stalling the Spitfire high compression engine in the 1949 Chrysler models, according to Green Motor Co., local dealer. The waterproof ignition system in the Chrysler is unique in that it is the only American automobile to incorporate this feature that makes the Chrysler a more dependable vehicle.

New spark plug covers, consisting of a steel bowl and a flexible neoprene synthetic rubber cap for the terminal end, completely protect the insulators from splashed water and keep them free of oil, dust and dirt. Synthetic rubber caps seal the connections of the ignition cables to the distributor. Neoprene-covered spark-plug wiring, which will not absorb moisture, is used instead of braided wiring.

This waterproofing, which was an outgrowth of Chrysler's war time experience in making combat vehicles impervious to wet weather, prevents moisture from getting into the spark-plugs, wiring or distributor, where it might form a path of the ground for a short circuit and prevent the firing of the sparkplugs. Dirt and oil around the plugs would accentuate this condition.

In addition to standard engineering tests through standing water and over wet, muddy and dusty roads, the Chrysler Spitfire engine has been subjected to streams of water from a hose and buckets full of water. But it continues to run despite the thorough dousing of the visible engine parts. An engine without the waterproof ignition system would stall.

This waterproof feature makes the Spitfire engine especially desirable in damp, foggy weather when spark-plug often become short circuited. It also is valuable in negotiating flooded roads or traveling in a driving rain-storm.

"Undercover Man" Inside Story of Brazen Criminal Rule

The terrifying inside story of the most brazen criminal rule that ever shocked America is coming to the Cameron Theatre Thursday in Columbia's "The Undercover Man." Hailed by advance reports as perhaps the greatest of crime stories, and based on the revelations of Frank J. Wilson, Chief of the U. S. Secret Service, Ret., the movie is told with a bold realism that makes it one of the most gripping films of the year. Glenn Ford is starred, Nina Foch fills the principal supporting role, while James Whitmore and Barry Kelly have other important assignments in the film that tells the fact-by-fact bullet-by-bullet story of how Federal agents nailed the most vicious crime syndicate in history.

"The Undercover Man" is said to contain taut action, a tender love story and realistic character delineations all set down in authentic surroundings. Together, their impact on the emotions of the movie onlooker is overwhelming, according to preview audience reactions. The mounting suspense, as the operations of the criminal syndicate impinge on the lives of many little people, explodes in a violent climax.

Briefly, the story concerns the superhuman efforts of Glenn Ford, a hard-hitting U. S. undercover man to unearth proof of the guilt of America's most notorious criminals. This evil band ruled a big city with an iron hand, overriding justice and terrorizing its citizens, until a handful of little people courageously came forward, uncovered by Ford's painstaking investigations, and helped bring the mob to its knees.

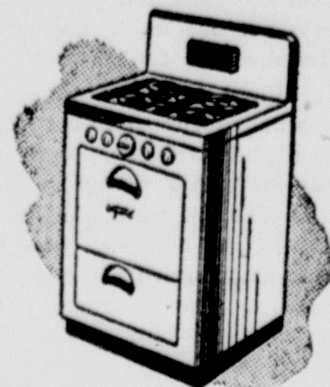

Producer Robert Rossen has heightened the effect of what is essentially a great detective story, and has made it a powerful and absorbing human document. Sequences actually were filmed in the Los Angeles Union Station, the Federal Building, the Post Office, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's office, a sheriff's sub-station at Malibu Beach, the U. S. Coast Guard Base at San Pedro, the Lockheed Air Terminal, the beach near Santa Monica and Malibu, the grounds of a large Beverly Hills estate, a big ranch in San Fernando Valley, and numerous other authentic locales to give added realism to the exciting story.

Ford, whose last role was in the Technicolor "The Man from Colorado," plays the Federal undercover man with authority. Miss Foch is his wife, who is also a target of the gang's terror. Whitmore plays one of Ford's assistants, and Kelley enacts the role of a suave, but crooked mouthpiece of the gang.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Todd have returned from an enjoyable vacation trip to Shreveport and New Orleans, Louisiana and many other points of interest.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN TALKS WITH CABINET

WASHINGTON, July 14—President Truman met two hours and 33 minutes tonight with top cabinet, military, atomic and Congressional leaders on a matter so secret none of the participants would discuss it.

Chairman Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who left the meeting about midway in the special session held at the Blair House, told a reporter:

"You wouldn't print it if you had it for the good of the country."

As the conference broke up, Vice President Barkley set the tone for the other conferees, who included Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Johnson and General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

When asked by reporters if he could say anything about the session, Barkley replied:

"Not a damn thing."

Later he asked the newsmen who had been waiting in the rain for hours to eliminate that remark and quote him as saying:

"I've got no statement of any kind."

He said there would not be any statement by anyone "unless the President decides to make one."

Speaker Sam Rayburn, who normally jokes with reporters, was as grim as the growling Barkley.

The conference was held in the Blair House amid secrecy reminiscent of war days.

The scene in front of Blair House resembled some of the early days of the war.

White House police held back a crowd some distance from the house steps. Many tourist automobiles circled the block as the motorists peered intently at the canopy, wet with rain leading up the stairway.

Chairman McMahon, Democrat of Connecticut, of the joint Senate-House Atomic Committee, told reporters that he did not believe there would be a statement from the President, certainly not tonight.

The presence of David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission and members of the Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy raised speculation that the top level conference dealt with some aspect of the atomic weapons question.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, minority leader of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gravely told reporters he had nothing whatsoever to say about the conference and said they need not "telephone me at home."

General Eisenhower was asked "What do you make of this?"

"It's a hot evening and rainy," the General responded pleasantly.

The W. O. Newtons Are Touring The West

PRESIDENT TRUMAN WINS STEEL FIGHT

The nation narrowly escaped a steel strike today.

President Truman's 60-day peace plan was accepted after all. A fact-finding board appointed by him will study deadlocked disputes over wages, pensions, and group insurance, and make recommendations.

Whether the board will avert a strike in September is something nobody knows. At least the crisis is over for the Summer.

Less than 12 hours before the midnight strike deadline, the United States Steel Corp. reluctantly fell in with the White House plan.

The huge company protested it was being "compelled" to accept the plan to avoid a strike. It still objected that Mr. Truman's board — unlike Taft-Hartley boards—will have power to recommend a settlement. But it agreed to testify before this board.

That did it. Other large companies had already accepted.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, announced the strike is off for 60 days.

He said in Pittsburgh: "I think we can all express delight that a strike has been averted."

Murray said the union would proceed with a walkout against any company that refused to co-operate with the fact-finding board. He said he didn't know of such company.

A strike looked grimly imminent this morning against the "Big Three" of the industry—U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic. Unlike some other companies, they had failed to agree to testify before the fact-finding board. They feared much of the public might expect them to accept the board's recommendations, regardless of what these were.

imposed by the council in addition to a 10c increase in the tax rate. Folks who have sewerage in their home don't mind paying a tax if they get something for it. They don't mind paying their tax if the privies are blotted out and connections enforced. Then everybody would bear the burden. As it is, hundreds of surface toilets are on or near sewer lines. If the city don't require connections it is only natural that those who live in the infected areas will complain and have the right to raise a lot of hell about it. We only hope it will be enough raisin' to get something done.

"You can say in your paper that we are not going to pay that sewer tax. We do not have any intention of paying it because we don't feel we should be treated in any such way and my neighbors feel the same way about it."

Mrs. Weems says there are 6 privies right there in her neighborhood. All of them right on the sewer line.

As if you don't already know, some of the worst offenders in Cameron are rich folks with lots of property and surface toilets. In fact nearly all the surface toilets are owned by 5 property owners who have rentals. "I Have Nothing To Do With It" seems to have been in the Mayor's office for the past 20 years or more.

They told Miss Lalla Meyers the same thing. She didn't take no for an answer. Remember? She cleared up Latrene Avenue and you can do the same if you want it cleaned up.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Marek left the past Saturday for a vacation trip to Mitchell, South Dakota where they will visit their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon McCoy. They will visit in other points of interest before returning to their home in Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lehmberg and little son, James Milton of Houston, spent a few days in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bailey last week.

MITCHELL—

lifelong friends of the late Governor Beauford Jester.
The guest list included leaders from all sections of the county, also members of the Commissioners Court, the City Council, prominent members of the bar, financial leaders, newspaper men, farmers and ranchers, merchants and others.
On the speakers table was a gorgeous arrangement of dahlias grown by Mrs. Graham Gillis and arranged for the display by Mrs. Kathryn Robbins.

Mr. Mitchell was formerly county engineer for Milam county. When the late Governor Jester named him to the Highway Commission he became the first resident of central Texas to go on the commission. Naturally the people of Milam county were greatly pleased to know that a former resident was to be on the commission. They not only appraised this fact for its full possibilities to this area of the state, but they knew the capacity of the man, as was so well put by Oxsheer Smith, President of the Citizens National Bank, who responded to the address with a warm, personal tribute to Mr. Mitchell.

After he had recounted some of the achievements of Mr. Mitchell that focused attention upon his ability and availability for this place of high service, Mr. Smith put it well when he said: "Our most distinguished former citizen," then to emphasize what all agreed was more deserving, he continued: "No, not the most distinguished former citizen, but the most distinguished citizen for we refuse to yield up our claim to him."

When Mr. Smith had concluded his tribute the entire audience rose to its feet and cheered. Mr. Mitchell was deeply affected by this tribute from the people who know him best.

The Cameron Herald will reproduce in full text the address of Mr. Mitchell, an illuminating expose of the Communist movement from its inception to the very hour of the week when open conflict broke between Moscow and the Christian world.

BUREAU QUEEN—

Elrod and Bureau President S. W. McClaren, Jr.

Indications so far are that a capacity crowd will be on hand for the coronation and party.

Winner of the Milam county contest will compete in the district contest to be held later. She will also receive an evening dress, sandals and a corsage.

The names of the 13 contestants will not be announced until the Judging starts. Contestants are all between the ages of 16 and 22, and the daughters or sisters of Farm Bureau members, 50 per cent of whose family income is derived from a farm or ranch.

The girls will be judged on general appearance, poise and personality.

John C. Calhoun, chairman of the State Democratic executive committee will be in Cameron Tuesday to attend the Lions luncheon. He will make the trip with Highway Commissioner, A. F. Mitchell who will be guest for the meeting. Both are of Corsicana.

Charlie Martin, athletic coach at Milano High School, is taking graduate work at Southwest Texas State Teachers College during the summer session.

when we would have to haul express and parcel post to a neighboring town? Well that, to all practical intents, has happened.

Conceivably this would cost Cameron the services of large hatcheries as well as other industries depending on prompt express or parcel post service.

It works like this: An order for chicks is received. The hatchery takes them to the post office and they are sent out on the next train. But no night trains are met by express company. In order to get the chicks traveling they can send a truck to Temple and there night trains are met and baggage loaded on.

There was one ray of hope. The railroad company has a contract with the federal government to carry the mails. That is always a good paying contract. Those who are in touch with the situation here feel that the Texas & New Orleans will keep a train running to carry the mail and express, or as a substitute would put on a truck to carry mail and baggage over the highways.

Since such a contract with the government is profitable for the railroad it is not likely that they will yield it up. Private parties would like to have it. Railroads have in these cases kept up their standards of service through the truck route.

If this is not done on the route from Waco to Yoakum through Cameron some hope may spring from the prospect that bus lines might get such a contract.

Printing is a home industry.

TRUMAN TALKS ABOUT STRIFE IN RUSSIA

CHICAGO, July 19 — President Truman declared today that "tensions and conflicts" appear to be mounting behind the iron curtain. He added that he is optimistic the world may yet be organized for peace without war.

Communist tyranny, he told cheering thousands of shriners and their guests in mammoth Soldier field, will ultimately destroy itself or have to "abandon its attempt to force other nations into its pattern."

The President, speaking at a great outdoor celebration of the diamond jubilee session of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, said the United States will continue to "crusade for peace."

Roger Shannon, chief of the Chicago park police, estimated 70,000 persons heard the President's address.

In working toward its goal of peace, the President said, the United States should:

1. Halt the economic recession in this country, and work for a stronger economy.

2. Avoid the "foolish course" of slashing foreign aid funds. He said this course would be disastrous because it would produce "stagnation and despair" abroad which could only benefit the communists.

The President said that within its inner circle, the Soviet orbit "manifests the fatal weaknesses of all dictatorships."

"Within the circle of its control today, tensions and conflicts appear to be increasing." He continued. "It may have temporary triumphs, but in the long run it must either destroy itself, or abandon its attempt to force other nations into its pattern."

The first applause, after the cheers which greeted his introduction, came when he predicted senate ratification Thursday of the Atlantic pact binding western democracies and the United States in a defense agreement against aggression.

Without mentioning Russia, he spoke of the doctrine which calls for organizing the world by destroying free governments "through the use of force and the effort to create class warfare."

"But in practice," he said, "this system of world organization is no better than the old tyrannies that have failed. It is incapable of satisfying the needs and desires of men for a better life."
